SPADES, RAKES AND FORKS ORIGINATING IN OR IMPORTED FROM THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA (PRC): FINAL DETERMINATION

In accordance with the provisions in Article 11.3 of the World Trade Organisation Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, any definitive anti-dumping duty shall be terminated on a date not later than five years from its imposition, unless the authorities determine, in a review initiated before that date, on their own initiative or upon a duly substantiated request made by or on behalf of the domestic industry within a reasonable period of time prior to that date, that the expiry of the duty would likely lead to continuation or recurrence of dumping and injury.

On 26 May 2006 the International Trade Administration Commission of South Africa (the Commission) notified the interested parties through Notice No. 673 of 2006 in Government Gazette No. 28847, that unless a substantiated request is made indicating that the expiry of the anti-dumping duties against imports of picks, shovels, spades, rakes and forks (hand tools) originating in or imported from the People's Republic of China (PRC) would likely lead to the continuation or recurrence of dumping and injury, the anti-dumping duties on hand tools originating in or imported from the PRC will expire on 8 March 2007.

The investigation was initiated through Notice No. 245 in Government Gazette No. 29688 on 7 March 2007. The investigation was initiated after the Commission considered that there was prima facie proof that expiry of the duties would likely lead to the continuation or recurrence of dumping of the subject product originating in or imported from the PRC and that there was prima facie proof of the likely continuation and/or recurrence of material injury.

After considering all parties' comments and representations in respect of the "essential facts" letters, the Commission made a final determination that the expiry of the duties is likely to lead to the continuation or recurrence of dumping of the subject product originating in or imported from the PRC and that the expiry of the duties is likely to lead to the continuation or recurrence of material injury.

The Commission, therefore, recommended to the Minister of Trade and Industry that the anti-dumping duties on picks, shovels and spades, rakes, and forks originating in or imported from the PRC, be maintained.

The Commission's detailed reasons for its decision are set out in Commission Report No.251 (Final report).

Enquiries may be directed to the investigating officers, Ms Selma Takács at (012) 394 3596 and Mr Wiekus Steenkamp at telephone (012) 394 3812 or at fax (012) 394 0518.

NOTICE 1334 OF 2007

SAFETY IN MINES RESEARCH ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Established in terms of Section 41(2) (a) of the Mine Health and Safety Act, 1996 (Act 29 of 1996)

Thrust 9: Special Projects

Project title

SIM 060602: An Investigation of digital chest radiography the SOUTH AFRICAN MINING INDUSTRY

- Phase 1: To test reproducibility of digital chest x-ray against analogue for detection silicosis and pulmonary TB.
- Phase 2: To develop Standards

Motivation

With the increasing switch from analogue (film-screen) to digital radiography in the occupational health setting, there is a need to establish the reproducibility (reliability) of digital for film radiographs for the common occupational diseases. In the mining industry, these are pneumoconiosis and pulmonary tuberculosis.

Statement:

The South African mining industry has over many decades been using conventional analogue chest x-rays for medical surveillance of occupational lung disease until recently when some of the large mines moved to using digital x-rays. Digital x-rays are considered by many to improve diagnosis and improvement in efficiencies by streamlining workflow for technologists, radiologists and others. Literature review indicate that most experts and end users agree that it is only a matter of time before digital radiography imaging completely replaces films due to the former's perceived advantages of digital image processing, electronic archiving, tele-radiography and the potential for optimisation of image acquisition and display independently ¹. Another study concluded that Flat Panel Detector (FPD) showed image quality and agreement as that of Analogue chest Radiography (AR) with regards to small profusion categories assuring suitability in pneumoconiosis screening, but Storage Phosphor Computed Radiography (SR) had significantly less profusion than FDP or Analogue Chest Radiography and optimal imaging parameters for pneumoconioses screening needed agreement ². Franzblau et al. study (2007, unpublished final report) established the reproducibility of digital radiography in respect of pneumoconiosis. Phrased differently, the study that there were few significant differences in the reliability of image classifications across formats, and these differences were solely among classifications of image quality i.e. the consistency with which readers interpret CR is approximately the same as with which they interpret hard and soft copies. These authors also concluded in their study that Large Opacities: All image formats differed significantly with High resolution computed tomography C>Film Screen Radiology CR>Soft Copy digital films. The gap identified in these studies is that the study population does not have the high Pulmonary TB, which in itself may change these findings. The influence of varying the numerical processing algorithm used for digital radiography on reproducibility with respect to any of the above diseases was also not looked at.

Primary outputs

- PHASE 1:

1. Estimates of the reproducibility of digital versus conventional film radiographs with respect to detection, diagnosis and description of pulmonary tuberculosis in South African miners.
2. Estimates of the reproducibility of digital versus conventional film radiographs with respect to detection and description of silicosis in the South African miners. This would be useful because of the frequent co-occurrence of silicosis and tuberculosis in South Africa
3. Assessment of the influence of varying the numerical processing algorithm for digital radiography on the detection of pulmonary tuberculosis and silicosis in South African miners.
4. A set of digital and conventional radiograph pairs read by expert readers which could serve as a seed pool of standard digital radiographs for a future standardization project.

PHASE 1 WILL BE USED LATER IN SCOPING THE DEVELOPMENT OF SOUTH AFRICAN MINING INDUSTRY DIGITAL STANDARDS

Scope

The scope includes amongst other the design of study by epidemiologists and statisticians familiar with the occupational lung diseases, reading methodology and analytic techniques for reproducibility analysis, collection of sufficient digital-conventional film pairs from active and former gold-miners covering the required spectrum of disease for silicosis and pulmonary tuberculosis, as well as a selected range of numerical processing algorithms settings, reading by an international pool of expert readers for pneumoconiosis and tuberculosis recruited by principal investigators, statistical analysis and final write by principal investigators.

Tender requirement:

An organisation with proven project management and IT experience track record with teams that include for an example management and coordination of radiograph collection and quality control. Transportation of radiographs amongst readers and storage of radiographs. Putting up a team of special skills team as identified under academic setting below as well as methodology to achieve the primary outputs

Special skills and facilities required by project team

 - Preferential Procurement – 30%

The objectives of the Council in commissioning health and safety research, for both general and commodity-based projects, are to:

- Obtain and evaluate information to establish evidence-based risk assessment, standard setting and health and safety performance measurement;
- Develop techniques or guidelines to prevent, reduce, control or eliminate risks;

- Develop and pilot innovative ideas and procedures, where appropriate, to eliminate, reduce or control risk;
- Obtain information on the extent of work-related ill health;
- Identify, develop and improve sampling and measurement techniques to detect environmental hazards and assess personal exposure;
- Understand the aetiology and identify and evaluate best-practice screening, diagnostic and treatment interventions to reduce the impact of occupational disease;
- Evaluate the effectiveness of control interventions;
- Understand risk perception, attitudes and behaviour related to health and safety and promote best practices in hazard recognition and procedural conformance;
- Empower its statutory committees to formulate policy, expedite research aimed at improving the health and safety in the South African mining industry; and
- Collaborate with national and international initiatives and research to promote health and safety in the mining industry.

The criteria by which proposals will be evaluated include:

- Added value and impact – the Council supports research which can contribute significantly to the improvement in the health and safety of South African miners;
- Value for money – the Council supports cost-effective research;
- Innovation – the Council welcomes new approaches or new areas of focus for research leading to technologies or best practices to improve health and safety;
- Excellence – the Council demands excellence, particularly in the methods employed to conduct research, be it quantitative or qualitative, and hence will consider the track record of the proposer/s for expertise and delivery (quality, time and to budget);
- Use and development of research skills – the Council requires research teams to possess the skills relevant to the success of the project and also favours projects which assist in developing research capacity, particularly in previously disadvantaged groups;
- Collaboration - the Council places a high priority on collaboration between researchers and the “teams of excellence” approach. Thus, the means of soliciting research proposals is intended to stimulate collaboration between centres of excellence and individual experts in order to optimise the use of the Council funding and the research outcomes.
- Development of key indicators – the Council recognises the challenge in assessing performance and improvement in health, as opposed to safety, in the mining industry. There is a lack of suitable occupational health (OH) indicators and baseline data. Thus innovative and robust research to develop relevant OH indicators and baseline values will be favourably considered.

The Council’s research and implementation programme consists of occupational health and safety, addresses occupational medicine and hygiene, rock engineering, engineering and machinery, behavioural issues and technology transfer processes.

Each proposal must:

- Address only the research topic advertised and this must be specified;
- Be in the format indicated and the template specified using Word format; and
- Be phased as indicated in the project scope.
